

HIMSS19

Skedulo exhibited at the Healthcare Information & Management Systems Society (HIMSS) 2019 Global Conference and Exhibition, which brings over 45,000 professionals together to learn about all things healthcare! Here are our top three takeaways from the show.

1

Interoperability for an Improved Patient Experience

The word on everyone's lips at HIMSS 2019 was "interoperability" and most exhibitors were starting discussions around how the healthcare industry needs to overcome the challenge of siloed information across disparate systems to provide the best care possible. Learn more in this eBook on Interoperability and the Modern Healthcare Stack.

In-Home Care Is on the Rise

With the aging baby boomer generation, home care can help fill gaps in care and help people maintain their independence by keeping them out of the hospital or nursing home. With this shift comes a need for care providers that travel to patients' homes and the "house call" is making a serious comeback.

Technology in Healthcare Is Improving and Innovating

From medical devices that are connected to the Internet of Things, to Remote Patient Monitoring \(RPM\) technology, and Artificial Intelligence (AI)—innovative technology within the healthcare space is on the rise with an underlying goal of improving the patient experience, improving health outcomes and reducing cost.

We had a great time at #HIMSS19 and are looking forward to seeing how these topics evolve. Check out our blog post to learn more about all of the healthcare trends we are watching in 2019.
